HISTORY OF RAYMOND

By ELIZABETH KING

SUP TREK ARRIVAL

Thursday July 22, two days less than 100 years after the pioneers entered the Salt Lake Valley the caravan of covered wagon bedecked cars of the Sons of Utah Pioneers arrived home again amid the welcome of throngs of centennial celebrators. They were met at the head of Main street by a Marine Corps Color Guard.

Following is an excerpt of writing by Henry A. Smith, Deseret News Editor (Church) while the 1947 Caravan was enroute to Salt Lake City.

"City streets have been lined by thousands, people have assembled on highway corners and in farm yards to greet the caravan as it passed. To see 72 'white tops' speeding 35 to 40 miles per hour over the highways, led by a police escort is something entirely new and it seems to have taken the countryside by storm.

To some such a sight is but a passing curiosity but to others the modern caravan with the attendant publicity and the messages given at each stop by the leaders of the party have combined to awaken an interest in history of their region and to the part played by the great Mormon exodus of a century ago."

It must have been a thrilling experience for those 148 descendants to travel over the same 1500 miles as did their forebearers. It is said these modern trekkers slept on the ground enroute—many of them for the first time. They were also served antelope, buffalo and deer meat on the plains which brought back memories of stories of long ago.

One could not read the above excerpt without noticing the lack of prejudice which existed along the way now, in comparison to 100 years ago. One also feels a deeper appreciation and love for the pioneers and a feeling of gratitude for the Centennial commission for planning the re-enactment of the 1847 Mormon trek which no doubt caused every person who witnessed the long train of "white tops" slowly moving down Main street henceforth to more freely honor their ancestors by trying to emulate their lives and ideals. Many people not of the Latter Day Saint faith were touched and impressed by what they saw and heard. Following is an example:

Dr. Back, of the University of Iowa:

"The 1400 miles in which we followed the historic trek of the first pioneers convinced me that Brigham Young wrote his own eleventh chapter of Hebrews. By faith he left the promising and friendly Iowa and Nebraska plains to set his heart toward a country which he had never seen. By faith he crossed the trackless desert reaches of Wyoming to press onward to the distant horizons foreseen by the one he believed to be prophet and revelator. He trusted more in that still small voice than in the authoritarian counsel of trappers, scouts and frontiersmen who sought to dissuade him from travelling on." Dr. Back went on to say: "There is among them a conviction that a religion is no religion unless it is lived and faith is not faith unless it is founded upon truth. They have an abounding sense of the dignity and importance of man and if they believe they are the custodians of the true religion, I will say that their lives are a testimony to their creed.

Watch these Mormons. A century ago they founded an empire among the relentless wastes of a despised and neglected land. Today they are pioneering in the frontier of the spirit in the midst of a world that has lost its way. I have often visited their shrines—from the Hill Cumorah to Salt Lake and every evidence says that they revere their heritage."

While a crowd of many thousands strong were lining the streets awaiting the arrival of the "modern trekkers" my husband and I were standing on the corner near the Hotel Utah when someone tapped us on the back saying "Well, if it isn't some old friends from Alberta," we turned to see N.J. Anderson from Lethbridge (a brother of Roy of Raymond). He cordially invited us to come across the street and to the third floor of the Ziona Savings Bank where they were staying with Mrs. Anderson's sister in law Dr. Lingard Dr. Lingard at one time lived in Lethbridge. This invitation was very much appreciated as from our comfortable seat in a large bay window we could see from three directions, north, south and west. Soon cheer upon cheer rent the air and looking southward as far as we could see were "white tops" headed toward the Brigham Young monument where they came to a final halt to be received by church, state and city officials. In the reception line were President George Albert Smith, Pres. Reuben Clark Jr. and Pres. David O. McKay and a number of the authorities of the Church. Also Governor Herbert B. Maw and several city officials headed by Mayor J. Glade. They all heartily welcomed the 1947 trekkers. We could not help but notice the old fashioned "sage brush" piled all around the receiving stand where civic and church officials

ant. Later one of them announced "Wheels Carry Me Home" Perhaps through the loud speaker "The peculiar strong odor from these quarters comes from these piles of Utah sage brush." It was stated by the Master of Ceremonies that President Smith and Governor Maw had greeted the caravan earlier in the day at the Brigham Young monument of stone and could feel that the great leader and colonizer was there in the flesh and with his outstretched arm was saying "Welcome home, pioneers of 1947. We are glad that we paved the way and made life easier for our descendants to follow." There were no handkerchiefs, no real tears but as we looked upon the bearded drivers and the bearded glimpse of the "white tops" as they entered the valley. A halt was also made at Sugar House where the largest crowd in the history of this community came out to greet them. As the caravan halted at the Brigham Young monument the "Promised Valley" quartet dressed in pioneer costumes began singing "Wagon canyon into that very valley of the Great Salt Lake.

There were tears in many eyes, a choke in many a throat for the rich heritage they have left us—the greatest heritage that has ever been given to any single community or state, and the thought came to me as we silently sat in the window above this panorama "We cannot, we must not fail them."

Farm Incomes

ALTHOUGH AGRICULTURE IS ONE OF Canada's leading industries, in which 17.3 per cent. of the population is engaged, farmers as a class have not accumulated wealth to the same extent as those connected with the nation's other large industries. In fact, farm income in Canada represents only eleven per cent. of the total national income. It is true that some farmers are very prosperous, but there are also many who have never enjoyed financial profit in a fair proportion to the amount of money and labor they have invested in their farms. The farmers of Western Canada have continuously sought to improve their lot and many of their demands have received favorable consideration, for there have always been able men and women, both in agricultural organizations and in political circles, who have supported their interests. However, there have also always been groups who have shown little sympathy with the problems of agriculture.

Net Increases Are Not Great

The subject of farm incomes came up during the recent sessions of parliament, and the figures given at that time showed that although net farm incomes had more than doubled since 1939, farmers are still not enjoying any great measure of prosperity. Actual figures showed that net farm income had increased from $387,000,000 in 1939, to $1,000,000,000 in 1945. In the same period, however, operating expenses and depreciation had increased from $498,000,000 to $750,000,000. It was also brought to the attention of the people that although farm income had more than doubled in the last seven years, the average cash income realized by farmers prior to 1939 was only $743 per year.

Not Many Pay Income Tax

The low level of farm incomes was further emphasized by the fact that only about 4 per cent. of all farmers paid income tax in 1945-46, and although income tax inspectors were appointed to check into the matter of farm income "not more than 7 per cent. of all the farmers in Canada were making an income which the inspectors thought was sufficiently large to pay income tax on or to be checked further." When the importance of agriculture to every part of our national life is considered, it seems regrettable indeed that even in what must be regarded as a period of great prosperity, the cash earnings of the average farmer should be under $2,000 a year. It is not likely that these conditions will be quickly changed, but it is as well that the people should be made familiar with the fact that as things are at present, the average farmer is far from making an income proportionate to his contribution to the national economy.

NO PLACE ON FARM FOR CITY LOAFER

A farmer writing to a contemporary, objects to magistrates advising vagrants to "go out and work on the farms". When transient loafers and drunks appear in court, the lecture from the bench usually ends up with the advice to go out in the country and get an honest job—probably because they are not wanted in the cities.

Sciatic Pains?

TAKE

Kruschen

At one time, most people accepted sciatic pain as an unkind trick of fate and let it go at that. But modern men and women figure there is a cause somewhere in the body and seek to remove that cause. They find Kruschen a big help. Kruschen is a balanced saline treatment—gentle, thorough, effective—which aids the organs of elimination and also supplies minerals which may be deficient in the diet. Start with Kruschen tomorrow, and see the results for yourself. Begin by taking a small dose of Kruschen every morning for the next few weeks. Gentleman's Life "$75-$80 A Day"

NEW YORK.—Baghat Chimy Bey, member of the higher council of tourism in Egypt, decided after two months in the United States that he "liked everything about the United States in general," but:

It takes $75 to $80 a day "to live here as a gentleman."

Bey made his observation as he hurried to his plane to fly to Paris.

PRAIRIE PROVINCES SHARE IN RECORD VOLUME OF CHEQUES

Continuing high velocity of money circulation, usually an indication of prosperous business conditions, is shown in the great volume of cheques cashed in Canada in the first six months of this year. Greater than in any similar period since the statistics were first collected, the total was $36,409 million compared with $34,484 million in the corresponding period of 1946, according to figures released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Total for June was $5,975 million compared with $5,609 million in the same month last year, an increase of 6.5 per cent.

Each of the ten centres in the Prairie Provinces recorded advances, the greatest percentage increase shown in Medicine Hat where the total was $42 million, a gain of nearly 26 per cent. An increase of 17.7 per cent. was shown in Calgary, where the total cheques cashed amounted to $843 million. The debits in Winnipeg exceeded $3 billion, the increase over the first half of 1946 being 6 per cent. The total for the three provinces was $5,544 million compared with $5,069 million.

An increase of 17.8 per cent. was recorded for the three centres of British Columbia. The greatest percentage advance was shown in Vancouver, which moved up 19 per cent. to $2,571 million against $2,161 million last year. The total for British Columbia was $3,135 million against $2,662 million.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

SALUTARY EXPERIENCE

Experience is not what happens to a man. It is what a man does with what happens to him.—Aldous Huxley.

It is the temper of the highest hearts to strive most upwards when they are most burdened.—Sir Philip Sidney.

There is only one real failure in life that is possible, and that is, not to be true to the best one knows.—Farrar.

Every failure is a step to success; every detection of what is false directs us toward what is true; every trial exhausts some tempting form of error.—William Whewell.

When unconscious of a mistake, one thinks he is not mistaken; but this false consciousness does not change the fact, or its results; suffering and mistakes recur until one is awake to their cause and character.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Failure indicates that energy has been poured into the wrong channel.—D. Brande.

USE ELECTRICITY

British farmers on tour in Sweden said they were impressed by the wide use of electricity, even in rural areas, and the efficient manner in which water is supplied, both to feed cattle and to irrigate fields.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

Boss: "Do you believe in life after death?"

Office boy: "Yes, sir."

Boss: "Then everything is in order. After you had gone for the afternoon yesterday to bury your grandmother she came in here to see you."

Mr. Semi-Detach: "For goodness sake, Ethel, stop making that alarm clock go off! What's the idea, anyway?"

Mrs. Semi-Detach: "I only want to make the neighbors think we have a telephone."

Two executives were relaxing in a soft-drink parlor. In the course of their shop talk one asked, "Is your advertising getting any results?"

The other took a long swallow of ginger ale before he answered. "Sure thing! Last week we advertised for a night watchman, and the next night we were robbed."

A little girl was asked to tell who Socrates was.

"Socrates," she said, "was a Greek philosopher. He went about giving people good advice. They poisoned him."

"Does the foreman know that the trench has fallen in," asked the contractor.

"Well sir," replied the workman, "We're digging him out to tell him."

Huddy: "Darling, you are extravagant. That electric fire has been burning upstairs all day."

Wife: "Don't worry, dear. It's not mine. I borrowed it from next door."

Earl Wilson tells of the New York panhandler who stopped a man and asked for a dollar.

"Why such a large touch?" the panhandler was asked.

"Well," answered the panhandler, "I'm trying to put all my begs in one ask it."

First farmer—Which is correct: A hen is sitting, or is setting?

Second farmer—I don't know, and I don't care. All I bother about is when she cackles—is she laying or is she lying?

"What's wrong with this sentence?" asked an English teacher of a class of small boys: "The horse and the cow was in the pasture."

A smart little fellow answered: "Please, sir, the lady should have come first."

Jack: "What did your wife say when you got in from the club dinner last night?"

Bill: "Not a word. I was going to have my two front teeth pulled out, anyway."

He was about to leave for the office when his wife handed him a small parcel.

"What's this dear?" he asked. "A bottle of hair tonic."

"That's very nice of you, but—er—"

"Oh, it's not for you!" she replied. "It's for your typist. Her hair is coming out badly on your coat."

"What's a matter, pal?" asked the little fellow. "You gettin' off here?"

MUST FIND PEACE

The Victorians had a peaceful start behind them and a long peace ahead of them. We hapless "atomic moderns" are being told too often that our days of peace may last only from ten to twenty years. It is difficult to foster hope or plan constructively under such a threat. But a way to an enduring peace must be found or life may become futile and negative.

British Crisis Endangering U.S. Trade Plan

WASHINGTON.—The British financial crisis endangers the entire postwar American plan to create a system of world trade with a minimum of barriers, American officials said.

One of the major objective of the $3,750,000,000 American loan to Britain—of which all but $1,000,000,000 has been used—was "to assist the government of the United Kingdom to assume the obligations of multilateral trade."

The United States and 16 other nations, including Britain, have been negotiating at Geneva for four months to create an international trade organization based on multilateral trade and to agree to reciprocal tariff reductions.

The present British crisis may go far toward upsetting early successful conclusion of the Geneva conference. The emergency conference in Paris of Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton, and U.S. Ambassadors Jefferson Caffery and Lewis W. Douglas will examine all possible repercussions of the British situation.

American officials here do not agree with former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill that the Labor government has "frittered" away the American loan on movies and tobacco. They agree, however, that circumstances have caused the British to spend the money to keep body and soul alive rather than for capital goods for reconstruction which a year ago everyone had hoped would happen.

These officials point to the statistics which show that nearly half of Britain's imports from the U.S. have been foodstuffs. Tobacco imports were cut sharply in January and have been running since then to only about 10 per cent. of Britain's total imports in contrast to nearly 20 per cent. earlier.

The bulk of British imports from this country, however, have been raw materials for industry.

British sources here pointed to the British food ration, which may face another cut in the attempt to attain super-austerity.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado river is 278 miles long. At one point, it is 13 miles wide and 6,000 feet deep.

Orphans Shear 11 Lbs.

Two years ago Mrs. G. Randall, Salt Spring Island, B.C., had two motherless lambs given to her by a neighbor. Although no sheep-raiser herself, Mrs. Randall nursed the lambs, feeding them by bottle.

Recently the grown sheep were clipped, each producing more than 11 pounds of wool, handsomely rewarding Mrs. Randall for her efforts. British Columbia agriculture department officers reported the wool yield well above average, the normal wool clip being about seven and one-half to eight pounds per sheep.

The only two sheep Mrs. Randall owns, they have been pastured in her orchard.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

The Colorful Kid

By HOWARD BECKLER

It is a well known fact, that Marty Burns is the smartest bozo in the leather pushing racket, insofar as the managing end of the game is concerned. Everybody is aware of this fact, all the way from the president of the boxing commission down to the man who is hired to "lighten up the ropes. Marty himself, in his diffident manner and large checkered vest, would, if pressed, explain the situation briefly, "Well, brother, I ain't exactly no dummy."

He was forever being plagued by slap-happy doddlers, stevedores, and young kids just out of diapers who imagined they were in need of managing. What most of them needed was a keeper or a nurse, but that's where Marty's talents came into play. Out of this mass of assorted cauliflower, he picked his scrappers with the cannicness of a connoisseur. That's how he happened to get his hooks onto the Walla Walla Kid, and came to make the one and only mistake of his career.

This knuckle duster came bristling into the office one winter day with a crash and a bang. He tossed six newspaper hounds off the much-scarred mahogany of Marty's desk, and then spoke his piece to the great man himself.

"I can lick anybody in the joint," ful. That's it! Colorful, colors!" He slammed the Kid on the back. "You like colors don't you, Kid?"

"It's jake with me, boss."

"All right. This is simple, Kid. So simple, I think even you can understand it. Now, listen close," Marty talked slowly to make sure it would penetrate the mystic thickness of the Kid's flaming skull. "I take three cards, of three different colors. I hold up the red card and you cross your right. Green card you jab with the left, and blue card you hook the left. Simple?"

"Simple," the Kid agreed, and this time he actually seemed interested in the idea.

They were hanging from the rafters at the Armory the night of the fight. Tiger Jones didn't waste any time loosening up the Kid's lower lip with a wicked wallop. This satisfied Marty once for all that it was his own brain that would finally win the fight.

The Kid was eyeing the corner. Marty flashed the green card for a jab, and the Kid tried to cross his right. Jones stepped in and slapped him into the rosin with a murderous uppercut. Marty groaned. How could one guy be so dumb? He got up at five, a little uncertain, and looking for orders.

The Tiger was rushing. Marty flashed the blue card. A steaming left hook would slow the Tiger to a walk. But the Kid was backing away jabbing with his left. The Tiger crashed through and dumped him in the corner for an eight count. That's just about the whole story. Four rounds later, the referee stepped in and pushed a badly beaten Walla Walla Kid to his corner. He had bounced off the boards nine times in four rounds, but he could take a pounding all right. No doubt about that.

Reporters circled Marty and the Kid after he had showered and dressed. "What bent him, Marty?" They asked the question at the little manager. "His one and only fault beat him," Marty tapped the red head of the Kid. "Nothing between the ears." The Kid managed a grin through shattered lips. "I've been holding out on you, boss."

"Yeah?"

"Yeah, I've got two faults instead of one."

"No?" Marty's eyebrows raised in disbelief.

"Yeah, I forgot to tell you that I'm color blind."

To prepare fruit, add ½ cup water to ½ cup dried apricots. Cover and let stand 4 hours or overnight. Drain, chop, and mix with water in which fruit was soaked. Add 2 teaspoons lemon juice. Measure 1 cup prepared fruit into saucepan.

To combine and cook, add sugar to prepared fruit in saucepan; mix well. Place pan over high heat. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add Certo at once. Stir and skim for 5 minutes. Pour into glasses. Paraffin at once.

Note: If Sure-Jell is used, prepare fruit as directed, using ½ cup dried apricots and 1 cup water. Omit lemon juice. Measure 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons prepared fruit. Cook as directed in Sure-Jell booklet, using 1½ cups sugar and 2½ tablespoons Sure-Jell.

Canada-Argentina Deal Going Well

OTTAWA.—Oil and newsprint supplies are moving at a "nice rate" between Canada and Argentina under an exchange agreement reached by the two countries last winter, Trade Department officials said.

The agreement provided for exchange of 9,000 tons of Canadian newsprint for 9,000 tons of badly-needed Argentine oils.

The officials said there had been "no hitches" in the agreement beyond normal transportation problems. Supplies of the two commodities were moving regularly to forward positions in both countries and some vessels had already sailed in both directions.

There had been "no complaints" from either country and Canada was getting "splendid co-operation" from Argentine authorities.

Edmonton Population Seen On Upswing

EDMONTON.—The 1947 Henderson's city directory lists the population of greater Edmonton at 125,000 persons. In the 1946 edition, the population shown was 120,900. These figures include the immediate suburbs of Edmonton such as Jasper Place and Beverly.

Population of the city proper is in dispute. Last year's civic census gave it as 114,976 while the Dominion quinquennial census made it 109,997. The 1947 civic census now under way is expected to show an increase.

Sleep In Cave With Bear Cubs

KETCHIKAN, Alaska—Two brothers, Harold Lewis, 11, and Fred, 9, slept recently with a family of bear cubs in a cave.

Fred came out with some scratches and a minor bite from one of the cubs.

The father, George Lewis, took his sons fishing. They wandered away and he thought they had gone home until he returned to town.

The family dog led a search party to the cave.

Prairie Town Aptly Named

BIENFAIT, Sask. — On railway sidings near this town in the south-east corner of Saskatchewan, rows of coal cars replace the wheat-laden box-cars normally found on Saskatchewan sidings. And lines of coal tipples replace the grain elevators that are almost inevitable at prairie points.

Early farmers labored unsuccessfully on the thin, unfertile clay. But near the turn of the century, coal was found nearby and since then farmers have turned in slack seasons to the coal mines to augment their incomes.

Early Scottish settlers were driven out by drought in the late 19th century. A wave of French-Canadian settlers followed, but they, too, moved on. It was only when farmers began to burrow for coal in the banks of the Souris River that the town took hold and prospered.

Today approximately 1,500 men earn their living in the deep-seam mines, and civic leaders estimate the town's business is double that of the average farm community in the province. In its early days, it was as "rip-roaring" as any boom mining camp.

But now residents say, "you'd never know it was pay day except to cash the cheques."

Heifer Learns Speed Playing With Deer

NESCOPECK, Pa.—It's a different heifer which returned to Clarence Shaffer's farm after a five-month sojourn with a herd of deer.

The young bovine forgot it was not supposed to run fast and developed amazing speed.

The heifer escaped from Shaffer's farm when it was nine months old. Later, reports from the countryside told of the unique sight of a young cow ranging over fields and through the woods with four or five deer.

Other cattle on Shaffer's farm finally attracted the heifer home.

GANDHI SADDENED BY DISCARDING THE UNION JACK

NEW DELHI.—M. K. Gandhi said here that "the retention of the Union Jack for such period as India was a dominion was a point of honor."

He told his prayer meeting: "I heard with sorrow at the Congress working committee meetings that the Union Jack was not going to occupy a place on India's national flag."

Gandhi asked Indians not to rejoice over the omission.

MY WEEK

by R. J. Dearman

Not long ago the editor of the Lethbridge Herald headed a bit of a natural thing in the cow country about the fact that in Western Canada there was a tendency towards a decline in population and that even in the favored province of Alberta the annual increase was indeed quite small.

Why people want to leave sunny Alberta is a problem I am never able to answer. There are, of course, individual circumstances. I left myself, but if I were moving tomorrow I would sooner live in Alberta than in any other province of Canada or any state of the Union I was ever in.

The fact is the human race is restless. It surges like the waves of the sea in north and south Dakota the last census recorded a 15 percent drop. Montana and Idaho fell more than 10 percent. In the South, Mississippi, Kentucky, Alabama and Georgia lost population due to the migration of Negroes. California is the up and coming state of the Union. Michigan and Ohio, because of their great manufacturing centres, follow after. California wins because of its climate.

We are becoming a softer race. The fire is dying out in the eyes of the pioneers. Baby bonuses and old age pensions are working their will upon us. The supreme desire of the human race is not for new worlds to conquer, not even for peacetime victories. We seek a spot in the sun where we can gaze at the stars and start. Life need not be strenuous. The way of the world is for rest with a soft drink by our side.

FOOD IS DEAR

The American price level is going up. The cost of living is now approximately 51 percent above the level of 1923. The food advance has been made not in manufactured products but in food. There the increase is 88 percent. Yet no one thinks of calling the farmer a profiteer. We know that the price level of farm products rises and falls like the mercury in a thermometer. This too may surprise you. There was little variation between the average price level of farm products and the average price of manufactured products in the average of the last 25 years.

The problem of the farmer is the instability of the price level, not the price level itself. May I add something else. There is instability also in industry. The net income of incorporated business in the United States was $2,145 millions in 1929, $2,145 millions in 1939, $2,145 millions in 1949. In 1929 business savings had changed to losses of $374 millions. They had lost more than half the 1929 level. In 1949 business operations were conducted at a loss, dividends paid out of reserves. Industry too has its hard times. We are all in the same boat though at times some do more rowing than others.

THE LODGESTONE

"Here is a man striding toward his home; I cannot say if he is going toward quarrel or love. I can ask myself only this: 'What sort of man is he?' And when I know that, only then shall I know what lodestone he is impelled and where he is bound. For in the end man always gravitates in the direction commanded by the lodestone within him."

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Canada and Turkey have reached an agreement to raise their existing legations in their respective countries to the diplomatic status of embassies.

Thurza Cope, Leek, Staffordshire, England, thought she was 100 but on recount, checked with her birth certificate, found she was only 99.

Five were ill after their Sunday dinner at Manchester, England, because Oswald Smedley used insecticide by mistake to make the gravy.

A Senate Small Business sub-committee voted to visit Alaska to study the possibilities of producing newsprint from timber on government-owned lands in the territory.

About two-thirds of the timber in Britain in 1939 was felled during the war. A. H. Gosling, deputy director-general of forestry told the empire forestry conference.

In 1946 Canadian farmers paid $157,612,000 in wages to hired help. Ontario farmers paid the highest wage bill, nearly $40 million; Alberta was second with $36 million.

Australia can supply quick-freeze vegetables to British Commonwealth Occupation forces in Japan. Trial shipments have proved satisfactory—the vegetables arrived in perfect condition.

Up to May 1, about 65 per cent. of Canada's wheat exports for the present crop year—August 1, 1946, to July 31, 1947—went to Britain at $1.55 per bushel; the balance went to other countries at world prices.

UNITED STATES ARMY DEVELOPING HUGE BOMB

—TO WEIGH 42,000 LBS.

WASHINGTON—The United States army air forces is developing and probably will test in the next few months a 42,000-pound super-size bomb.

So far as is known, this will be the largest standard-explosive, that is, non-atomic, missile ever made.

The weight of the bomb suggests that it is intended for use in such aircraft as the B-36, which is capable of carrying 36 tons of explosives and is equipped with a bomb bay of enormous dimensions.

The A.A.F. had even larger bombs—one 100,000 pounds—under consideration in the blueprint stage, but designers said privately that a curtailed research program resulted in shelving these projects.

They described the 42,000-pounder as a "general purpose, block-buster" type.

There was a hint over the weekend, meanwhile, that the military may be looking into the future for an even more fearful weapon—an atomic bomb which when dropped from a high altitude might sink deep into the earth and produce a man-made quake.

An A.A.F. announcement of forthcoming tests with deep-penetration bombs on a submarine assembly factory at Farge, Germany, referred specifically only to two standard-explosive bombs developed since war's end. They are the 25,000-pound "Amazon" and "Samson".

TOURIST SAYS CANADIAN GIRLS BETTER GROOMED THAN U.S. LASSIES

OTTAWA.—The essential difference between American and Canadian girls is that Canadian girls have that scrubbed, just-stepped-out-of-a-bath look, according to a University of Chicago student interviewed by the Ottawa Journal.

"They don't seem to know how or care to use cosmetics the way our girls do," said Stanford Whitmore.

His friend, Paul Bindelgas, of New York City, remarked laconically that he really didn't see much difference between Ottawa women and those of New York.

"The thing that gets me," he said, "is the way Canadian men whistle at passing pretties. Their whistle isn't nearly as subtle as our low, quiet one."

McIvin Howard, another pal, didn't have much to say. He said he was too busy looking while he still could before the skirts go down to the ankle.

"They certainly are reserved," said a young, disappointed man from Scranton, Penn. "It seems they don't speak to you without an introduction."

"But I think they are pretty anyhow," he added.

One man from Grand Rapids, Mich., was quite enthusiastic about the pulchritude of Ottawa.

"I never saw so many pretty girls pass by as when I stood at the corner of Metcalfe and Sparks waiting for my wife to come back from shopping."

"They certainly don't know how to dress," stated a middle-aged Virginian and then proceeded to tell what was wrong.

"Their shoes are run-down at the heels and seldom attractive and they don't pay attention to the correct accessories." The speaker was a buyer in a large department store in Richmond.

One man from Asbury Park, N.J., declined to make any statement. He was with his wife.

Let Wives Judge This Divorce Case

PITTSBURGH.—Testimony from a wife that her husband believed spouses should be beaten three times a day on principle helped win a divorce for Mrs. Agnes Vukson, 27, of nearby McKee's Rocks.

She told the court her husband "would take a poke at me any time he wanted," and added: "He said his father always told him a woman should be beat up three times a day—once for breakfast, once for dinner and once before she went to bed."

Condemns Red Riding Hood Tale

LONDON.—The Nursery Schools Association of Britain condemned the tale of little Red Riding Hood as cruel, deceptive and likely to create fear complexes among children.

Miss Joyce Cornish-Bowden, education secretary of the Association, demanded that the story be kept from British youngsters because of its harmful influence.

A few weeks ago the Middlesex County Council banned Punch and Judy shows on grounds that they teach children to become wife beaters.

Miss Cornish-Bowden, a noted authority on child education, said little Red Riding Hood would be suitable if it were not for the big bad wolf. When the little girl finds her grandmother isn't there, "any child will feel quivers of fear," she said.

May Manufacture Cars In India

WINDSOR, Ont.—Possibility that after independence is granted to India, she may eventually manufacture automobiles wholly within her borders was suggested in an interview here by Basil O. Stevenson, managing director of Ford Motor Company of India.

A native of St. Thomas, Mr. Stevenson, who is home on a six-month leave, said that impending changes in the government of India will make it more difficult for companies which now import manufactured products for assembly and sale to Indians.

He felt that India's growing nationalist spirit will lead to demands that automobiles be made in India instead of being imported and assembled as at present.

BEES TRAVEL IN STYLE

Six queen bees, valued at $600, were flown from the University of California at San Francisco to Woolahra, Sydney, New South Wales, for experimental breeding purposes. During the journey of 3½ days, the bees were kept within a temperature range of 75 to 85 degrees F. Each bee occupied a separate compartment in a large cardboard box.

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

Parents' Part

Pointing out that a sick child is incapable of taking full advantage of educational facilities, National Health authorities remind parents that their co-operation is required to make the most of school services.

"When the children go off to school this Fall, parents will expect teachers to be qualified to instruct them," the health department notes. "At the same time, the teaching staffs will hope that parents have done their part and will send children to school physically, as well as mentally, capable of study." The authorities suggest that the family doctor be asked to give the children a thorough medical check-over before schools reopen.

Safety In Soap

Soap is effective against most disease germs. So, says the health department at Ottawa, even though others have handled it, there is no reason to shun the soap in a public washroom. However, the health authorities advise against using common towels, in washrooms or elsewhere, since they can transmit disease.

Rhythm Beneficial

Medical authorities approve the training of children along musical lines. They admit that all children can't be truly musical, but point out that the little ones instinctively love harmonious pulsations and that this taste should be cultivated.

The health authorities believe that if children are taught to appreciate good music, rather than simple jazz, they will get much more out of life later on.

Habit Forming

Since their very future will depend on wise guidance, children should be given a good set of living habits from earliest years, the authorities at Canada's capital remind parents. Habits which last a lifetime are formed in childhood. It is then that environment, example and training mould personality and create character.

Health experts suggest that parents consult family physicians to ensure that their children are being taught sound health habits.

MUST LIKE STRAWBERRIES

LOS ANGELES—Pel Brown really likes strawberries—to the tune of $95.

He couldn't remember whether his diet allowed him to eat the berries. Since the copy of his diet was in London, he made a transatlantic call to his wife, who told him he could have them.

The cost of his scrumptious breakfast: $129 for the strawberries, $94 for the phone call.

If cornered, a badger digs itself underground with lightning-like rapidity.

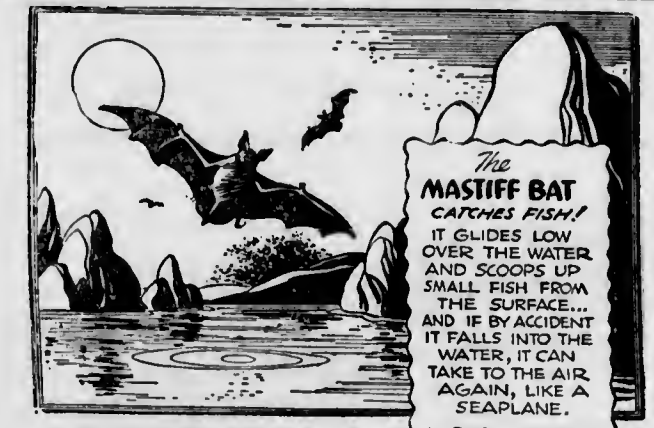

ON LONG PLANE HOP—Chippewas can be, five-year-old Gabrielle Toyne is shown at LaGundia Field after arrival by plane from London. The young lady is on her way to New Zealand, where her playwright father, Gabriel Toyne, and her actress mother, Diana, plan to launch a theatre movement.

BRITONS CANNOT HAVE ANY FANCY CHINA

Britons will continue to sip their tea and raise their boiled potatoes from plain white cups and plates. Sir Stafford Cripps, Board of Trade President, said decoration on domestic pottery would not be permitted as Britain could not afford the loss in exports of colored pottery which would be caused if workers changed to ornamentation of the home supply.

YOUTH OF BRITAIN ARE LEARNING TO BE WORLD CITIZENS

School children from all parts of Britain met recently to learn about the problems the world is facing. They were aiming to fit themselves to become responsible world citizens of the future through an understanding of the difficulties that people of other countries must encounter and overcome. A seven day course in international affairs was arranged for them by the Council For Education in World Citizenship. Those attending the course were voluntarily devoting a week of their school holidays to these studies. The council is a non-political body on which professional associations of teachers, local education authorities and youth organizations are represented.
